Chinese sociologists have proposed two famous concepts: the Tibetan-Qinghai Corridor and the Tibetan-Myanmar Corridor.

In the Hengduan Mountains, according to the popular African origin theory of humans, many people believe that there was a group of late intelligent beasts.

It may have first moved south, then north, and may have occurred at 30,000~ SARA.

Jin Li, Lu Dasong and others from the Institute of Genetics at Fudan University used SNPs on the Y chromosome as genetic markers.

This provides strong evidence for the theory that East Asian populations originated in Africa.

The study found that the Y chromosome of the northern population is relatively simple, and it is a subgroup of the southern population.

The earliest migration route of East Asian people was from south to north.

Through the analysis of Y-SNP of the representative ethnic groups of Sino-Tibetan language family, it is found that the ethnic groups of this language family have a common

About 6,000 years ago, a branch of the Shiwu clan migrated southwest through the Tibetan Corridor into the Himalayas.

The region produced the differentiation of the Chinese language family and the Tibeto-Burman language family. The Tibetans then shared the ancient people from Central Asia.

The groups merged to form a multi-origin combination in the Y chromosome that includes the characteristics of both East Asian and Central Asian populations.

If they find hills and islands where they can gain a foothold, they will quickly move there. So we are really easy

Easy guess: Are ancient humans marine animals? I even want to guess that they were amphibious

Contrary to our imagination, it was actually our ability to get close to water that deteriorated later. at least

It's not surprising that humans were once anatomically close to water.

Some people also explain the origin of mankind as being at sea. British anthropology in the mid-20th century

Professor Alice Hardy believed that this

The human ancestors of the period did not live on land, but in the sea.

A fossil gap. In the history of human evolution, there have been millions of years of water

There is also the "Sea Ape Theory"

Prehistoric stone carvings have been discovered throughout the Mesopotamian region. Some people believe that the one in the middle is a turtle, while others disagree and believe that it is a child.

Third, primates other than humans are not good swimmers.

In 2002, a French physician named Michael Oden proposed an even more bizarre

New view: Humans are more closely related to dolphins than to apes, and humans are ancestors of dolphins.

The argument is:

First, humans are hydrophilic by nature, while monkeys hate water. This is the most obvious watershed.

Human babies have the instinct to swim when they are born, and the human spine can be bent, suitable for

When exercising in water, the spine of apes cannot extend backward.

Fourth, humans can express emotions through salty tears. Interestingly, dolphins

Ancient humans did not die as we had previously speculated because of the lack of high-tech ships.

Putting aside the question of human origins, what attracts humans to the seaside?

Why did ancient people gather at the seaside? There are several points to consider;

But they can only relieve their physical discomfort by staying at the seaside. Even this

This phenomenon has led to some superstitions, but in fact it is related to the salt they take from marine life.

A certain relationship. Rivers are fresh water, so they cannot replenish salt naturally. In addition,

The advent of the drilling and water-dissolving method for mining rock salt deposits has given rise to the term "well salt" and "rock salt".

The general term for "salt" is "well salt"*, or generally referred to as "rock salt".

Salt is an indispensable substance for maintaining normal physiological development of the human body.

Many people have explored the secrets of the rise and fall of China's Yangshao culture. I think this

The discussion must be based on a correct understanding of the origin of human civilization, especially Chinese civilization.

Only by doing so can progress be achieved. My view is that the rise and fall of Yangshao civilization is related to the geography of the earth.

Environmental changes may be directly related to major geographical changes in East Asia.

The Yangshao culture was located in the most impoverished arid plateau mountainous area in northwest China today.

People were surprised. Why this culture flourished here thousands of years ago is puzzling.

Get the solution. Once you understand the great changes that have taken place throughout the ages, everything will become easier to understand.

The Yangshao people once lived in an area not far from the sea and lake, but about 4,000 years ago

Before that, the geographical environment was broken from the environment to which they had adapted for a long time. Coast from geography

The "big slash" q moved eastward, and at the same time did not receive timely technical updates from the Middle East.

The Middle East also strangely experienced a large-scale southward migration of civilization.

The degree is also possible, so Egyptian civilization began to flourish in the Middle East, and in China, Yangshao

The civilization was replaced by the Yellow River civilization in the south.

The decline of the Yangzi civilization is synchronized with changes in the Middle East. From the world map,

The core area of Yangshao culture, Gansu and Qinghai, coincides with the Anatolian Peninsula and the Mesopotamian Basin.

The regions were at similar latitudes, and at the same time they achieved civilizational stability in the East and the West.

Long-term development. Starting around 4000 AD, civilization moved southward simultaneously in the Middle East and East Asia.

This is not a coincidence at all.

In the early days of fishing, hunting and agriculture, climate played a decisive role in the development of a region.

The rise and fall of the ministry points to the answer to the mystery.

The origin of Chinese civilization can indeed be simplified into these two major civilization blocks, Yang Jiang

In the west, it represents agricultural civilization, and the "Three Generations" probably represent "oceanic culture".

Although Hegel said that the Chinese in the feudal period turned away from the ocean, in the Neolithic Age we

Perhaps it can be said that it was the "ocean culture" that defeated the "land culture" and the East defeated

The West. The emergence of the “third generation” can probably be summarized as the victory of “ocean culture”.

Or the victory of "water culture".

Whether there was ever communication between the earliest sites of civilization in China is a question.

And how to define this "communication" is a problem. But anyway this is

The fact is that they each have their own strong characteristics; if we cannot say that some

What kind of humanistic significance is worth

Need to ask further questions.

The main body of Chinese civilization can be said to have started from the "Three Dynasties", and this civilization

The Ming Dynasty has used Chinese characters as its symbol and this continues to this day. So exploring Chinese civilization actually starts with

It is to clear up the root causes of the “three generations”.

When we examine the "three generations" of civilization, we should not forget the fact that

There were tens of thousands of tribes in China at that time, and the Xia, Shang and Zhou dynasties were just some of the larger ones.

They may not be able to represent the whole of China, but they can undoubtedly be discussed as a representative.

Gu Zuyi concluded: "The traditional view is that when Xia Rong summoned the heads of various states at Yushan,

During the reign of Emperor Gaozong, leaders of various nations came with jade and silk. Shang Tang was appointed by Heaven to shoulder the heavy responsibility

At that time, there were still more than 3,000 countries. When King Wu of Zhou convened a meeting of the princes and reviewed the army, there was also 1800 practitioners. When the Zhou Dynasty began to move the capital eastward from Jingjing to Luoyang,

There are 1200 states. During the 242 years from the relocation of the capital to the end of the Spring and Autumn Period, the monks further

Mr. Zhang also clearly believes that the cultures of Xia, Shang and Zhou dynasties are unified. I'm in Locking Red

The book "Sea" even went a step further to try to prove the common kinship of the "three generations", for example

Discussion on the ancestor "qi".

Perhaps it is simply because this family that has been passed down pays special attention to the "family tree".

Therefore, we only pay attention to these three generations at the same time, and ignore all others.

ET? For example, we paid no attention to the Sanxingdui civilization until it was discovered by accident.

Their bronze vessels stood before our eyes, and we knew that there was such a civilization.

Team. Does the habit of compiling family trees really have such a great influence?

Is it just because there is no habit of compiling family tree that it has been forgotten by Chinese history?

Which ethnic group or group in China still has this tenacious tradition of compiling family genealogies?

Is this custom only held by the Hakka people, or do other ethnic groups also have this tradition?

Do they learn from each other or has this tradition existed since ancient times?

Are there other ethnic groups in the East that have the custom of compiling genealogies besides the Jews?

We should pay enough attention to it, because our history may actually be written by someone who likes to compile family trees.

The family was filled with exaggeration.

In the book Locking the Red Sea, I suspected that "Hagar" was "Hakka".

To this day, Hakka people still have the habit of recording their family tree. For example, today the Hakka people in Ganzhou, southern China

However, detailed facts about the migration from Yingchuan, Henan 1,700 years ago can be recorded. Of course,

The genealogies of several holy families in the country are clearer, such as the Kong Bei family. I don't know the world

Are there other countries and ethnic groups that have this custom? There is no need to doubt the genealogical ability of the Jews.

It is suspected that some Central Asian countries also seem to have similar traditions.

Due to the lack of written language, the Xia Dynasty did not actually leave any documents.

There is very little to talk about the Guanxia Dynasty, only legends. However, these legends have not been effectively accepted in China.

As the question of "Shang and Purity in Ancient Society" suggests, there is also

Some questions. First of all, the "missing link" of the text cannot be completed from within the local area.

Explanation: Why did the Shang civilization exist in the southeastern coast? It is also a question of its relationship with the outside world.

The extensive connections have not been adequately compared and analyzed. Although Mr. Zhang's book has an opening

The idea of opening up can be seen in 1978, nearly 30 years ago, and there are still a lot of

With the emergence of cultural relics and textual research, many concepts have been fundamentally changed or overturned.

The "sequence" mentioned by Mr. Zhang is also valued by many local origin theorists.

But I think this sequence is like a perfectly woven twine, which is "unique" when viewed from the outside.

It is "standing" and is as long as you want it to be. Careless people can't find the interface.

But anyone who knows the principle of weaving hemp rope should understand that hemp is not strong just because it looks strong.

It is woven from such long hemp fibers, which are connected bit by bit. Ma Qiang

The length of the yarn has nothing to do with the length of the constituent hemp fibers. The “local origin theory” focuses on

The appearance of the hemp rope is strong, but the "Western theory" is intended to point out that the seemingly complete hemp rope is actually

In fact, it is woven together by new and constantly incoming short fibers. They are at an angle

There is a fundamental difference.

I think that after the application of DNA technology, many old ideas have been overturned. This is what happened.

Something new in recent years. If we admit that the mainstream of humanity came from Africa, then

We need to accept the premise that they have to go through the Middle East to get out.

It seems that Mr. Zhang does not reject the idea that China has accepted certain foreign influences, but he believes that

Because it didn't reach the level I thought it would. He said: "Many scholars who hold this view

They often reject the theory of diffusion and deny that it is a driving force for cultural and social development. But not transmitted

Broadcasting cannot be excluded so easily. On the same page he also said;

When talking about the fact that the royal lineage of the Shang Dynasty may have borrowed customs and habits from other parts of the world,

In fact, this attitude itself shows that Mr. Zhang Guangzhi is not a firm "Chinese

He said, "A serious history of business with a broad vision

The ancient ethnic culture may also be related to the relationship between the kings and the dragons.

Its worth noting. ”

Zhang Guangzhi's statement that the multiple royal families of the Shang Dynasty took turns to be the bankers fits my idea perfectly.

China's Shang Dynasty was not composed of a single force, but a collection of multiple ethnic groups and forces.

Moreover, he directed the vision of eastern Chinese culture to the vast Pacific Ocean and Austronesian cultural area.

This is something I greatly appreciate. Since he has been involved in archaeological work in Taiwan for a long time,

He is an authority.

Mr. Zhang Guangzhi may agree that the Zhou Dynasty is the beginning of Chinese civilization.

Many people hold this view: "The 900 years of Zhou rule ushered in an exciting new era.

During this period, all aspects of Chinese civilization experienced

Some fundamental changes, which finally led to the end of the formation of ancient China,

It is the beginning of the Chinese Empire and its traditional style for more than 2,000 years.

I would rather move this beginning to the later period of business. Zhou inherited too much of the civilization of the Shang Dynasty.

Including text.

As for the origin of Zhou, Mr. Zhang Guangzhi suggested that "from the Fenghe area near Xi'an

In the lower reaches of the Fen River and the Wei River Basin, the ancient culture of these areas developed and Western Zhou culture". What I want to say is that this may have been similar to the Xia and Shang dynasties.

The sequence is Yangshao culture (Neolithic Age), Longshan culture (Neolithic Age)

The legend of the Shang Dynasty is that they won over people with virtue, but in fact, archaeological evidence shows that the Zhou people were also far superior in productivity.

Q: Why is business lagging behind? Perhaps, this problem still needs to be solved from the perspective of transportation.

The answer lies in the innovative developments of the

One group used them, and the other group didn't.

Using them alone can make a big difference.

Zhou's replacement of Shang is an example of an inland culture triumphing over a maritime culture.

Shaanxi developed for a long time, although there was a close marriage relationship between Shang and Zhou.

But group interests prevailed over everything. Zhou's replacement of Shang may have other reasons that we have not observed.

The cultural unity and differences between the Zhou people and the Shang people are mainly reflected in the oracle inscriptions.

members, and why else would they have different religious calendars?

It is said that in ancient times, people all over the world used the "Lunar Calendar", and the Zhou people used the "Taipei Calendar".

There are still dozens of countries and regions that use the "lunar calendar".

It is an Islamic country. Perhaps we should say that people in the Arabian Peninsula have a strong belief in the "moon".

The lunar calendar is more persistent. The use of the lunar calendar is mainly due to its convenience in agriculture.

It comes from the cycle of "synodic month".

"Synodic month" is an important astronomical concept, which means:

The difference in ecliptic longitude is 180 degrees during the “full moon” period, and the moon seen from the earth is

China's Xia, Shang and Zhou dynasties did not use a unified "lunar calendar". Only the Zhou dynasty used the "lunar calendar".

It is said that experts have mixed opinions on the use of the Shang calendar.

The lunar calendar was used, but the lunar calendar also included the lunar calendar of the "new and full moons". Xia Dynasty

It can only be regarded as a starting point for discussion.

The Shang Dynasty used both the lunar and solar calendars. This information is helpful for some of our subsequent analysis.

People in the northeastern Mediterranean region used a lunar calendar, while Egypt used a solar calendar.

It is likely that the solar calendar was used in the Red Sea basin. Does this calendar phenomenon make Shang

It is difficult to prove whether these linguistic conclusions are completely correct.

There is indeed a close cultural connection between mainland China and Austronesian culture.

Just adjusting the direction of origin may make it correct. For example, in fact, eastern China

Some of the people who appeared were those who returned from the equator to the middle of the continent when the Quaternary glaciers melted more than 10,000 years ago.

I went to mainland China. Of course, it is also possible that these regions communicate with each other. For example, in Bingfan

During the expansion period, humans in mainland China were driven to the equator within the Tropic of Cancer, and then

It is possible. When the evidence is sparse, it is sufficient to assume that there is a cultural connection.

It is too early to draw conclusions about who is the ancestor of whom.

Putting aside the debate about what comes and goes, there is no dispute about the existence of the connection.

One issue that needs to be paid attention to here is that if there is no navigation ability, whether

About 2000 years ago there was a theologian named Apollodorus who lived on Earth.

The period of concentrated black pottery culture in China was about 4500 to 3500 years ago.

Why are the Persian Gulf, Bohai Sea and Po River named after this?

In traditional paintings, the Chinese Poseidon is the same as the Greek Poseidon, holding a trident.

Man, I don't think they're a coincidence. Moreover, in ancient Chinese, “波”

It is likely to mean "sea" or "water". People originally called it "Poseidon".

Some water bodies or rivers were called "Bo", and over time that became their name.

For example, "Bohai" actually comes from the "Bo" Sea, and the ancient "Boshui" in Henan

Also from this origin. That is to say, at least in the Shang Dynasty, the Chinese may have had sea gods.

It is very likely that the worship of the sea god began in China during the Shang Dynasty.

The name people gave to the god of the sea was probably the same as the sea: Poseidon.

It would be a question. But if we assume that the Phoenicians participated in the construction of the Shang Dynasty, then

It must be related to this global event. Because neither the Sea Peoples nor Israel

The Philistines to the south are all related to the Phoenicians. I would even like to speculate that perhaps

In their heyday, merchants had too much business, and they were ready to attack from all sides, but suddenly they had no backup.

Or maybe it was because of the lack of military force that the Zhou people took advantage of the situation and replaced the Zhou Dynasty.

Finally, after a hard fight, the Phoenicians were defeated on both sides, and they won four victories in China.

In addition to the original, in Europe they went to the distant Mediterranean, especially concentrated in Italy.

During the Ming Dynasty, small countries in Southeast Asia and East Asia also sent money to the distant Central Asia.

In fact, the entire Indian Ocean region would pay tribute to some distant great power.

In order to protect, this phenomenon also occurred in the more ancient prehistoric period, so Egypt or

The rise and fall of a great nation like the Hittites would have many chain reactions, and East Asia was no exception.

This will have an increasingly greater impact on the world. The birth and death of "IR" and the unity of the West

It is not only possible but also necessary to link these events together.

Looking at the Etruscans' linkage, it's not so awkward anymore.

Judging from the increasing amount of information, "Greek Mythology" is probably not originated from Greece.

It is still necessary to study the system of the Shang Dynasty in China before it can be compared with the system of the Etruscans.

Make an in-depth comparison. However, we already know that the main duty of the Shang kings in China was to perform sacrificial ceremonies.

Things like divination were presided over by the Shang kings, who personally participated in divination.

Just like most Chinese tombs have tomb guardians, the Etruscans also have tomb guardians.

The noodles eaten in Italy are the magical macaroni. There are indeed only two places in the world

Noodles are popular in East Asia and Italy. As we delve deeper, we will find

These Chinese foods that are similar to Italian ones are mostly distributed in northern China rather than in the south.

This further strengthened the relationship between the Shang Dynasty, whose capital was located in the Yellow River Basin, and the Etruscans.

Whether it is Shandong, Henan, Bohai Bay or the location of the Shang Dynasty, it is generally considered

Northern China in the true sense. Of course, this may be determined by climate and resources, such as

Since the local area produces rice but not wheat, people naturally do not eat noodles.

There are also many interesting phenomena worth mentioning in terms of clothing. In Etruria there are

The prehistory of eastern and southern China is closely linked to Southeast Asia. At about 40,000

From 1900 to the "third generation" period, a large number of people may have entered China from Southeast Asia.

The Austronesian culture of eastern and southern China was likely also closely connected with prehistoric Southeast Asia.

In the spring of 1976, the catamaran Arcturus, made up of two giant canoes, Constellations, the sun, clouds, waves, currents, a sailor's memory. ?

Experts originally thought that it was impossible to reach the destination precisely.

They laughed at the impossibility of keeping a fixed distance of several hundred miles in completely primitive conditions.

Thousands of miles. But the experimental results were beyond everyone's expectations.

Facts have taught experts that their thinking may be too "rigorous".

Keep some "possibilities" with very small probabilities out of the door.

Being too strict actually means being "not strict". It seems that experts are too

Focusing on "impossible", Yiqi formed a de facto "imprecise" attitude.

A weak "maybe" can occasionally reach 100% probability.

No modern technology was used, not even maps, compasses or sextants.

The whole place is over. What is left to the rigid modern scientists is surprise and difficulty.

This result gave me confidence in two aspects. One is that the experts are “too rigorous”.

What I want to say most in this book: The navigation ability of ancient people may be far beyond our imagination.

In particular, there must have been ancient connections between the Austronesian cultures in a wide range of areas.

Originally, people believed that Southeast Asian civilization was a passive source.

Na, East Asia, the Middle East and even India will have an impact here. But in the second half of the last century

Archaeological discoveries in Thailand and other places have surprised people. As early as 8,000 years ago, there were many

Advanced civilizations exist, but they are relatively rare, so some people quickly came to the conclusion:

Southeast Asia is a self-generated culture!

It seems that more and more regions in the world are claiming to be "self-generated" independent civilizations.

However, the existing archaeological evidence cannot be fully confirmed, so most people remain

There was silence. My quick judgment is that too many places claim to be self-sustaining.

Civilizations, and their civilization time and geography are very close, then there is only one conclusion:

The vast majority of them are not likely to be self-generated and independent, but are the result of mutual communication and learning. question

It should focus on who and how these civilizations were spread. If this is not the case, then

Why didn't they develop their own civilizations after a gap of 10,000 or even 100,000 years?

Why are they so close in time, and in several regions? This shows that

They are basically transmitted from the same source. And from the late Paleolithic to the late Neolithic period,

The speed of transmission between each major civilization plate is about 1,000 years. The so-called "self

The origin of "life" independence is mostly excessive narcissism.

Now it seems that there are very early civilizations in many areas, RR. Mesopotamia, Iran,

"Bronze Waiting Ma" is a book made by Mr. Zhang Guangzhi during his late years when he was seriously ill.

A collection of short stories, one of the books in "Xueyuan Yinghua", contains 254 short stories.

Whether it is a speech, an essay or a special topic, the time span is from the 1960s to the 1980s.

It seems to be a random summary of Mr. Zhang's thoughts on Chinese bronze culture. It is beneficial to read it.

Quite a lot. I came across this book by chance after it was finalized.

There are so many new things, because I have learned about Mr. Zhang Guangzhi's works and thoughts.

I once said that Huangdi was Joseph or Jacob. Now there is more evidence.

I have to lean towards Jacob (aka "Israel"). Jacob in the Bible

The Israelites actually originally had twelve "name bearers", and later "ten"

"Three people" or even "fourteen people" are also consistent with the above. Because Jacob's younger son,

I have another guess that maybe in the long legend

In the course of evolution, the Chinese have confused Joseph and Jacob.

Because these two are actually the recognized ancestors of the Israelites, and they are the successors of the

The close father-son relationship makes it easier to confuse them as one person. The reason why Joseph was so prominent was because

Because he inherited Jacob's kingship. The two of them combined to form the Yellow Emperor of China.

In the Shang Dynasty, ancestors and gods were united, but in the Zhou Dynasty, ancestors and gods were separated (see 167 pages). This fits my theory very well. Because the Jews respect "God" more,

Therefore, ancestors are just ancestors; the situation in the Shang Dynasty is consistent with the primitive period of shamanism and

The situation of the Hittites was similar, in that the supreme ruler was both man and god.

The changes in people's attitudes towards animals, as seen in art and mythology,

Many other aspects of Shang and Zhou archaeology and history also left significant traces. Here I only

Take the history under the bones as an example. ... The custom of bone-shaking was most prevalent during the Shang Dynasty. ... The demise of the Shang Dynasty

Later, the custom of bone divination declined. In the Eastern Zhou Dynasty, according to archaeological evidence, although it was still practiced,

My guess is that in the Shang Dynasty, all things were spiritual, but in the Western Zhou Dynasty, things became spiritual.

The worship of gods and other animals disappeared, and divination was not as popular as it was in the Shang Dynasty.

That's it.

February 7, 2001, Life Daily: Shandong people and Europeans have similar genes?

Recently, there is news that my country's molecular archaeology research has found that 2,500 years ago, the mountain

The genetic characteristics of the Dongyou Linzi people are strikingly similar to those of modern Europeans.

According to the news, experts from the Chinese Paleontological Molecular Genetics Laboratory and relevant research institutions in Japan

In cooperation with the Institute of Geology and Molecular Biology, the ancient human DNA from the ancient tombs in Linwen District, Shandong Province was extracted and purified.

DNA from ancient bones and modern humans from 2,500 and 2,000 years ago in the region, and

The DNA characteristics were compared with more than 1,300 specimens screened from international genetic databases.

The results showed that the genes of Lindang people 2,500 years ago were very similar to those of modern Europeans.

The Linzi people before the Ming Dynasty have very similar genetic characteristics to the people of Kazakhstan and Altai today.

The genetic characteristics of contemporary Linzi people are very close to those of modern East Asians.

In this regard, Han Jinxiang, director of the Biological Center of Shandong Academy of Medical Sciences, believes that with the development of genetic science

With the further development of science, many original viewpoints have undergone great changes, thus the above conclusions are drawn.

Conclusions are possible. In addition, experts have found that the genes of Chinese people and Canadians are similar.

Because there are also similarities, these have a certain impact on the traditional view of evolution.

It is understood that the principle of this research is that mitochondrial DNA has the characteristics of maternal inheritance.

By analyzing the regional samples with the highest mitochondrial DNA polymorphism in different regions and different types of people,

By comparison, we can draw the above conclusion. ""

Sanxingdui culture is a unique garden opened up in the academic research garden of my country in the 20th century. It is also

One of the biggest scandals left to our country’s academic circles so far. Its mysteries and wonders since its discovery

It has deeply attracted the attention of many scholars at home and abroad. Relevant research climaxes come and go, and relevant topics

Articles and monographs appeared one after another, and various research judgments and speculations emerged one after another. For decades, surrounding Sanxingdui

The source of culture, the species and ethnicity of Sanxingdui people, the social organization and religious beliefs of Sanxingdui people,

The connection and influence between Sanxingdui culture and surrounding cultures, as well as the final disappearance of Sanxingdui culture and Sanxingdui people

A lot of basic research work has been done on the causes of death, but no convincing or more comprehensive view has been reached.

To reach a consistent conclusion, relevant research still needs to be further in-depth.

The main content of this book was published intermittently on the "Cultural Research Network" at first, and the author Su San is the author of this book.

The main contributor to the website, whose series of articles about Sanxingdui caused huge excitement and enthusiasm on the website discuss.

Su San based her knowledge on culture, history, humanities, etc.

Science, ethnology, ethnography, folklore, sociology, linguistics, archaeology, local chronicles, biology

Physics and other subject knowledge, using cultural comparison and cultural analysis methods, to understand the origin of human civilization and its special characteristics

Especially on the origin of the Chinese nation, he made bold inferences and conjectures, and put forward a shocking hypothesis.

Preface: Flying Conjecture

I first read Su San’s posts about Samsung Steak intermittently on the “Cultural Research Network BBS”.

I didn't pay much attention to it at the time. On the Internet, there are many new inventions, profound theories,

Angry comments and fictitious news, some of them are sincere, serious, pioneering, avant-garde, some are casual,

Tearful, false, and even nonsense, some are profound and sharp, with lofty thoughts that can serve as words to awaken the world.

But it is undeniable that most of them are junk products, full of cats, dogs and cats, spreading invalid information without hesitation.

There are mantras on the Internet, but they are nowhere to be found.

The Internet is a world of its own.

However, as I read it, I was attracted by it. I couldn't help but wait for the next "quick post",

I wanted to see the "reality" of the "three-star promotion"..., and later I learned that Su San's "three-star promotion" has been

It was picked up by a big publishing house and will be published soon. The author Zhongwo asked me to write a preface. I am miserable. I

He has no clue about history, human origins and national origins. But Su San said, you are engaged in cultural research

Outstanding work.

What can I do? I first named Su San's "feat",

Hu Shi advocated "bold imagination and careful verification" in learning. Su San's imagination can be described as bold, and an

Three people dare to risk the world's great injustice,

The Sanxingdui civilization is by no means endogenous. It is an external civilization whose origin is the "West". More specifically, this

The main creators of this civilization were the ancient Semitic people along the Red Sea coast, as well as the Iranians and Indians along the way.

The route they took to come to China was not the Northern Silk Road. The most likely route they took was the Southern Silk Road.

The migration of the Sanxingdui Semitic people may have been completed in one go, or it may have been accumulated several times.

The migration occurred approximately 4,000 years ago, and no later than 2,400 years ago.

China's dragon and phoenix worship may have originated from this foreign culture, and the "Three Sovereigns and Five Emperors" are also related to it.

The gradual disappearance of the independent characteristics of this foreign civilization happened just before and after the emergence of Chinese characters, so in modern China

It is reasonable that there are no accurate records of their origins in some historical materials.

Su San's conclusion is somewhat arbitrary, but meaningful. I miss Su San

I think it lies in placing literariness in history. Su San said;

A scientific worker without imagination is definitely not a qualified scientist. Being too rigorous is actually mediocre.

It is so rigid that it does not leave any reasonable exit for the solution of any problem. It can only spin in circles, as long as the thinking

Without opening up, we will not be able to get out of the misunderstanding of Xiaowei Country for a few years. What kind of imagination is needed to understand the Chinese

Being conservative requires some imagination. Conventional rules are no longer enough for the conservative and mediocre Chinese.

Yes, this is actually the true inheritance of "Chongfeng". Reopening China’s history is itself a battle of ideas and

The academic revolution is also a matter of the ambition and self-confidence of the country and nation, and then it is the issue of literature and archeology.

Technical issues.

But no. Su San was very cautious in his verification.

Science is about facts; science is without prejudice; science does not respect national boundaries; science is also ruthless of. Science can help us find our original home. Looking for “hometown” and finding relatives may not be of much importance to modern people

The actual general meaning, but at least it is interesting, and the general meaning itself is enough for me personally.

Su San also pays special attention to logic, constantly testing the reader's logical ability.

I have now realized that reading my book is not a test of readers’ historical common sense, but a challenge to readers.

The author's thinking ability and courage to imagine boldly. The entire Sanxingdui revelation is actually looking more and more like a repayment

Edit the game.

Su San studied English, and later Japanese and economics. He once taught English at a university and is now an adult.

Become a true networker. She is not an expert, but her agility and flying thinking are impressive. Place

It is said that "the heart is full of anxiety and the spirit is ninety-eight". Su San’s book covers many disciplines: cultural studies, history

Historiography, Anthropology, Ethnology, Ethnography, Folklore, Sociology, Linguistics, Archeology, Geography

Local chronicles, biology... her linguistic "from here to there", her archaeological "following the wave to find the source,"

Her anthropology is "based on Ban Danpeng", her literature is "exploring the music and revealing the details", her history is "little"

"Du Chencang" left a deep impression on me. Even her family background, life in her hometown, and her final days.

People and friends also came up with their own tricks and thought they were proof. The best way to use it is to keep your mind calm. Her guess seems to be

It is almost not academic, but it relies on academics and goes beyond academics. She is not an expert, but she can help experts.

Can do. Her argument may not be precise enough and her argument may be far-fetched, but her conjecture opens up

It opened another door to the birth of human civilization and opened up another way to explore the origin of nations and cultural integration.

One channel. |

Su San's hypothesis is a kind of cultural interpretation. Historical books and paper materials are evidence of the past

The "Plain Learning" of the Qing Dynasty has made unprecedented achievements in this regard. modern archeology

The new materials and evidence provided by underground gas generation provide a second level of evidence for ancient history research. Later, now

Modern humanities and social sciences take a new global perspective and approach it from different disciplines and different perspectives.

Past history has been reinterpreted, forming a more complex and in-depth multi-evidence research method.

The interpretation of culture gives us a more detailed understanding of history, the origins of human civilization and national culture.

Close to real understanding.

I firmly believe that diversity is what history is. Behind diversity is dialogue, exchange, Solubilization and fusion.

So far, none of the assumptions or hypotheses about the origin of human civilization and the origin of national culture have been investigated.

As far as mankind knows about it, all past hypotheses will await new proof and elucidation."

The road is long and we will continue to carry civilization and culture on the long road of exploration forever.

An important basis for He San to be able to search far and wide and reach all over the world is the Internet.

It is the Internet that provides her and us with such a rich and huge amount of information so quickly, quickly and conveniently.

Materials and information, the Internet is rapidly changing our academic research (including data collection, argumentation methods formula, research methods, argumentation, etc.). Even Su San could complete this quickly and passionately

This is a quasi-academic work, thanks to some extent the understanding, support and support of a group of netizens on BBS.

Looking forward to my next post. Su San said, I am too tired from writing. I want to rest for a while before writing, but I can’t hold up the Internet.

Friend's heartbeat, drum music and urging. Obviously, this is the way to write a novel, and the author has completed a

The soaring flight of imagination and the perfect construction of fictional power.

The era when the Internet is king has arrived.

I want to say here; Riding on such a powerful horse, what will the new generation of scholars in the 21st century do?

The vast world is for you to pay tribute?

(3) Worship of “5”

Why are the number of tables in Sanxingdui and the ritual room 5, and not others? Expert research

It is believed that Sanxingdui people respect the number "5" and believe that 5 is the most auspicious and complete number.

Therefore, in some tombs from the ancient Shu period, artifacts in groups of 5 will be found. Sanxingdui people

Why are there 5 platforms in the sacrificial place? This is the key to unlocking another series of passwords in Sanxingdui

The author believes that people in Sanxingdui have a deep respect for the number "5".

Sun worship is practiced almost all over the world, symbolizing the sun's many rays

The wheel in ancient India often had six spokes, and in ancient Israel it was

It can only be made with tools, because it is difficult to average the distance between the five spokes. But in Sanxingdui, this

The important symbol of sun worship turned out to be a five-spoke sun wheel! Therefore, the "5" in three

The Xingdui people may not only have mathematical concepts, but also sacred sources. This source should come from

These five numbers are probably a symbol of the alliance between the five tribes. There is another possibility

Yes, this is the birthplace of the Five Emperors of China. But this hypothesis must be clarified after the ancient crystal

The relationship with the Central Plains civilization can only be established.

However, people in the Middle East today also seem to love the number "5" because

There are many five-pointed stars on the flags of Semitic countries. At least we can find them in the womb of civilization.

More than 5 countries have done this, and this is no accident. Something must have happened to them,

Making 5 so important to them. But why is Semitic Israel alone in the country?

Why choose a six-pointed star on the flag? There must be an explanation for this. It was once divided among the Semitic peoples

Any traces of cracking?

Speaking of "5", there is an interesting thing. The ancient dark king is his beloved concubine (actually a male

The soil of Wudu will be the curtain. The king of Qin in the north, to show his comfort, sent him as a gift

In Israeli literature we can learn that Moses led the Israelites out of Egypt

In time, a similar establishment was designated midway. The only difference was that in Israel it was

From the above point of view, "five" is obviously not as convenient as "ten", so people from Shu did not inherit it.

Judging from the status of Moses' "Ten" establishment, I think the Sanxingdui people left earlier than the time of Moses.

The people who opened the Middle East were 3,200 years ago. This can also be found in terms of religious worship

(4) Architectural style

In the ruins of the Sanxingdui Culture and even the Baodun Culture period, a large number of materials using the same style have been found.

Residential houses built in a style. House buildings in this period were round, square and rectangular.

Among them, rectangles are the most common. Square or rectangular architectural formats are abundant in the Middle East region, and there was no shortage in the Babylonian region.

Why are there two architectural styles, round and square, in Sanxingdui? One hypothesis is

The residents belong to different races, such as masters and slaves. The masters live in squares and the slaves live in circles.

Because round houses are easier to build. Its shape suggests social class. There is another possibility

The reason why people put them so high after death may be because they want to see their hometown through the high cave.

The oldest source I have is from the Bible: Genesis. Abraham's wife dies

Later, Abraham, who lived on someone else's land, bought a cave from someone in grief, and the person was very generous.

The land was sold to him, but Abraham insisted on paying. Even though he also bought the fields, he still “gave him the land.”

He himself was buried in the cave of Machpelah after his death. He is the first in the Bible

It can be inferred that people with the hanging coffin tradition should not have been in China for more than

The hanging coffin will be placed high in the cave so that it is easier to see home in the distance. Additionally, place

Hanging coffins and dangerous hanging bones also require certain economic conditions, so the higher the county, the higher the coffin is.

The coffin may be more indicative of its noble status, because it will not require too many people to put it in a nearby cave.

It costs a lot of money and is easy to be stolen. In some ethnic minority areas in southern China there is still a saying myths about hanging coffins, but the core of these oral literatures are mostly about praising love and resisting the nobility.

These poor people spend their entire lives building caves with hanging coffins for noble people, but they never enjoy their own homes.

Lord, the hanging coffin is just the background of the story.

Of course, if there is enough land, the Semitic people may not necessarily have to hang coffins. No

If conditions require hanging the coffin, they can also accept other methods, such as burial, as long as it is not painful.

They will find a way to make up for the regret of not being able to hang out. For example, a large-scale sculpture unearthed from a commercial street

A group of ship coffins, a single coffin weighing more than a ton, would be difficult to "hang" even if there is a hole. Actually Jewish

Later, people also discontinued the tradition of hanging coffins in their native land.

The hanging coffin tradition in the Middle East has data showing that it ceased to be popular about 3,000 years ago.

Therefore, it can be preliminarily determined that the hanging coffin people who came to China should have arrived 3,000 years ago.

It arrived in China, but the earliest it could not be more than 5,000 years ago.

Boat. This Kuang custom reminds us of the cultural origins of these ancestors. They probably lived for a long time.

Living by the water, connected to the sea.

Archaeological findings show that the boat-shaped coffin is a unique custom in southern China, found in Fujian, Yunnan, and Guizhou

There are some, and sporadic discoveries are also made in Qinghai, mostly in Sichuan. Strangely, it is found in the south

Hanging coffins have also been found in areas where canoe-shaped taro customs were built. Why are these two so entangled? This

It is likely that they are two optional customs of the same group. The boat-shaped coffin and the hanging coffin both represent death.

The reader's longing to return to his hometown, either with peace of mind, or by "taking a boat" to go back, even after death.

It is also the Chinese concept to let the soul return to its hometown as soon as possible. "Falling leaves return to their roots." bird

The area occupied by one ethnic group is larger. Those who hang coffins mainly live in the Yangtze River Basin in the south.

I strongly doubt that the owners of the ship's coffin belong to the Semitic Phoenicians, who are famous

The sea people are also famous for their canoes.

There are also extremely sporadic hanging coffins in Henan, which the author saw in person when he was a child, which shows that

This exchange of civilizations between the north and the south has existed for a long time. The reason why the number found in Henan is not

If not, it should be one of the two.

[1] Later it evolved into a six-jointed plank style instead of a single-plank style. The main feature is that one end is larger and the other is smaller.

The author's hometown in Henan uses six-jointed ship coffins, and there is a saying that the fewer the joints, the more noble they are.

Of course, it is best to use a single tree. Nowadays, almost all Chinese people use the "ship coffin" with six panels.

There should be a concept of dragon. The jade dragon that is said to be the oldest dragon in China - the "Jade Pig Dragon"

It is far from the dragon we know, not to mention that there has always been a people's "pig worship" in ancient China.

It's just that we can't find any trace of it. There is really no need to attach "pig" to "dragon".

Let’s look at the dragons in the ancient Chinese literature "The Classic of Mountains and Seas" (see page 36 of this book), we can say

Four Indian Cultures and Mayan Cultures

(1) Three possible routes for the Mayans to reach the Americas

The author once speculated that the Mayan culture was composed of a group of people from the center of the "womb of civilization"

Created by them, they sailed from the eastern Mediterranean through the Strait of Gibraltar in Spain, passing

Not counting the wide Atlantic Ocean and reaching central America. People in the "Civilized Womb" have long mastered

The feet were in the Sanxingdui culture in the Chengdu Plain of China at a similar time.

They were all 3,000 years ago, and there was still an unknown connection between them.

If they are the same group, then the main body of this group is the residents of the Ban tribe.

The people stayed in the Chengdu Plain and formed the Yangtze River Civilization of China, while another ethnic group became

It’s related to the topic, so I might as well tell it as an interesting anecdote for everyone:

In the Spring and Autumn Period, Bian He, a native of Chu, found a jade in the mountains and presented it to King Li. Jade workers are like stones.

The king was angry and used Bian He's left foot for the crime of deceiving the king. When King Wu was on the throne, Bian He offered jade again and still treated him as a king.

Then brush the right foot. When King Wen came to the throne, Zheng He held the jade sitting vessel under Tuoshan. King Wen sent good workers to dissect Ying.

(4) The possible origin of “Han” and “Chinese”

The author once said that the surname "he" is probably a descendant of Hebrews.

And this craftsman is called Zhenghe. In fact, the Spring and Autumn Period and the Warring States Period were the most confusing period for Chinese people to name.

The period is not accurate at all. Of course, they have their own rules. For example, they can be like the Bo compatriots.

By rolling it back and forth like that, you can also name it after the place. For example, this "Zheng He" is quite interesting.

Obviously according to today's saying, his surname is "Bian", but people prefer to say that his surname is "He", so that's why

"He's Bi", why not call it "Bian's Bi"? There is indeed a surname "He" today.

The question was asked about half a month ago. Due to the lack of professional knowledge and the wide range of knowledge involved,

I believe there are countless common sense errors in the book, and I am not even sure whether there are

The story of Guan Gong's battle with Qin Qiong appeared, but in the investigation spirit of "it is better to make a thousand mistakes than to let one go"

After careful consideration, I boldly kept them, so the book's many holes are not only pragmatic.

Possible, and also "intentional", this apparent roughness is actually a kind of

"Strict", all these rough framework ideas are waiting for correction and updates from colleagues and experts.

With joint efforts, it is not impossible for Chinese history to develop rapidly. Let us

I hope this day comes soon.

This writing and publishing process was very smooth, and I received support and encouragement from countless people.

Of course, some ridicule and blows are inevitable. First of all, I would like to thank those selfless and enlightened scholars and

Institution, thank you to Mr. Yang Yusheng for making the connection, thank China Social Sciences Press, especially

It is editor Cao Hongju who has made special efforts in publishing this book. Professor Jin Yuanpu is busy

While writing the preface for this, Mr. Ye Jianning worked tirelessly and spent a lot of energy on this in his spare time.

The book was proofread and text adjusted, and Mr. Li Bing, the photographer, heard that I needed photos and prepared them immediately.

I made a personal trip to other places, and a group of friends from Hunan promptly sent me a lot of information.

It was so heavy that I made two trips back and forth to move it, and this friendship will never be forgotten, even overseas.

Several of my friends have also continued to give me various criticisms and suggestions. There are too many friends to thank.

It’s impossible to list them all, but their selfless support and open-mindedness are so touching that I cannot help but beg for them.

Without the help of any group this book would not have been successfully published.

At the same time, I am grateful to my family for their understanding and support for my crazy behavior. Actually in my pen

While farming was going on, my old father was seriously ill and hospitalized in his hometown. All my family members thought that I could sit quietly in the cold.

They made their respective contributions to this conjecture.

The smoothness and joy of the whole process often make people think of "divine help". Here I am too

I would like to thank Shang Shen for letting us get into trouble. He said "Help yourself and God will help you". All the experts and friends have helped us.

It is a kind of "God's help". With the joint efforts of everyone, this conjecture was realized so quickly.

preface

This book is an unusual text from every angle. It is a serious take on the Sutra

Study seriously, but it is not out of pure Song Dynasty teaching, it is another kind of consideration.

This book is a kind of tracing of countless ancestors who came to China, with a special focus on how the ancestors came to China in the first place.

Reasons and channels for going to China. This work is difficult, but with God's help it is easy. feel

Thanks to Shen Shang, who has provided us with a glimmer of hope in finding our ancient ancestors. Reading this ancient book of the Bible

The great works of ancient times are my only hope.

In the days when Feng had just finished writing "The Great Conjecture of Sanxing Dimensional Culture" and was waiting for its publication, I kept looking for various

Data and ancient materials are used to improve and supplement it, and it is constantly revised almost every day. Later I discovered that this detail

There is no end to the broken external modifications, and small repairs will definitely not solve all the problems. After confirming the Sanxingdui article

After the main body of "The Great Conjecture" did not need to be corrected, I completely gave up on the "Sanxingdui Cultural Conjecture"

Repair work, turn to the profound reading of the Bible -.

Intuitively I knew there was something I needed in the Book of Times but when I actually started writing I

Only then did I discover that I got much more from the Bible than I had hoped for. Countless new things that shocked me

The discoveries unfolded before my eyes one after another, and I was also shocked to wonder why such a simple and warm white thing has never been seen.

When it comes to research, at least I have never heard of anyone linking the Bible with Chinese history, so throw it away.

It was Lu Kuang's wisdom, or perhaps both, that led him to such an astonishing move.

Character determines destiny. Personality also determines reading and thinking styles. I am unbiased about everything

Man, even if the whole world tells me a wrong opinion, as long as I have the time to observe and experience it in person

Machine, I will definitely tell you "Su San's view", and it will definitely be a brand new view - one by one, it will be different from others.

If people agree, I don’t need to speak at all. Once I speak, it must be to express "different opinions",

People communicate and obtain information through "different opinions". Even if there are ten thousand identical opinions,

Nothing more than an opinion. Different new insights and ideas are always encouraged here. Such a thought

The basis of Wei's character is discretion and courage, and of course strict logic is needed to form meaning. with this

I am on a path that may have never been traveled by anyone before: trying to name one of the things I have discovered

"Truth" No matter how many people try to refute or attack my "nonsense", it cannot change what I continue to say.

determination. During this "deciphering" process, countless people have ridiculed and ridiculed me, but what I think of the most is

A common saying is: Go your own way and let others tell you. Ultimately whatever I found was a new addition

A paradise in the world or a new variety of wild chrysanthemums will be the reward and promise of my life. Thank God,

He seems to have given me an opportunity to show off my courage -

I believe that mankind’s great geographical discoveries (within the limits of our knowledge) began around the 16th century

From the beginning, as of today, almost all the great innovations that can be done have been decrypted by the people of Yongdeng. Earth

Everything is in vain before us, and we have even begun to explore the outer space of the universe. Today we

We live in a very lucky era, which continues to broaden our horizons and enable us to achieve success in our lifetime.

To learn more about the beautiful and wonderful secrets of God's creation -.

But at the same time, we are also mortal, and the question mark from hundreds of years ago still hangs in everyone’s heart: I am

Who? Where did I come from? Where will I go? Doesn’t this belong not only to biology, but also to the “earth”?

"Confucianism" and history. After relatively understanding the geographical location of human beings, I must say that we have

Quasi-historical knowledge is so shallow that it is incompatible with our times, and there is a lot of false information.

In our society, a small part may be intentional and man-made, but the vast majority of errors and mistakes

It is helpless, because history needs archaeological data, history needs documents, and human beings have the time of language

But it is far shorter than the time of human existence, not to mention not all people have the habit of leaving records~

Who knows their purpose? So no matter how high-tech it is, it is actually useless for a theory.

Think about the collection of historical data. This is the conundrum we face all the time. But it is precisely because of this challenge

It has left an opportunity to our contemporary generation, and a great historical discovery is likely to occur in this century.

Scientific and technological conditions and unprecedented social openness, as well as the overall archaeological accumulation of mankind, have given us

It has created convenient conditions for great historical discoveries. If not today, when will the new situation of history be!

As for the readers, all they need is the mental toughness of human beings to admit the "heliocentric theory" and "the theory of agency".

Turn.

The research direction I am doing is only a small part of anthropology and history, but it will be very important.

It’s a very interesting part, and that’s why I’ve always been crazy about it. Mysterious, touching, Laiqie, warmth, sadness, excitement, these are not only my emotions during the entire deciphering process, but also my emotions while doing this.

The mentality and experience of each antiphon note. They will all be truly reproduced in this book. Waiting for you

If you are willing to join me on the journey to find the footbands of our ancestors, then let us set off immediately.

The same goes for reading the Bible. If we regard the Bible (introductory part) as the common history of mankind, then "The Bible"

The Bible is a special genealogy, not just the public genealogy

This theory is completely ridiculous*

Very coincidentally, the day after I came up with the above conclusion, I saw such a piece of news:

Scientists say they have discovered how to use a new computer model to understand climate change in China.

Furthermore, the Bomala region experienced an extraordinary climate change about 4,000 years ago, and in the following 300 years,

During the interrogation, Serdan's vitality changed drastically.

The results of reading the model not only confirmed my speculation about the time of Shencao, but also why the county is from the large 4,000 to the Middle East.

Large-scale migration began about 20 years ago and China and Europe began to evolve civilization during this period, which provided the background.

It is reported that people who have been living in the Middle East for a long time can no longer stay where they are, and the rich and abundant food in the wild has turned into sand.

Sleepy frog, these southern regions have never been densely populated areas in Chinese history. The mainstream of Chinese civilization has always been in the north. Symptoms

Aiming at cancer trenches. Thousands of years ago, many regions in southern China were densely populated, and this was the case in many regions a hundred years ago. China

The population in the history of Zha has been replenishing, but it has flowed south to south, and then south, and basically never to the north. This is a strange phenomenon.

Hexiang deserves our attention from many aspects, but it reflects two problems; first, there seems to be a disgusting phenomenon in northern China.

The development of the situation led to the rapid growth of Qifang's character, and the further intensification of agricultural development. At that time, the effects of the development of the north were all

People in the North accidentally noticed what I said about the South 5*. In the end, the South became more and more barren, and the agriculture in the North developed smoothly.

In fact, the Zhiju in Cefang is a good ecological protection from another aspect. The long-term development of the north is imitated.

Weather conditions and geographical changes pose a hidden danger for a long time. This effect does not yet pose a threat in an era of low productivity.

It limits the development of the population, and the environment can basically be in a state of prosperity. But when it comes to political leadership and people

The same is true for the Chinese. For example, the location of the T-shaped ramming ram in Mawangdui was created by the ancient Egyptians.

Is it a question of "day"?

I was a little bit surprised when I found the following article, in a book called V Boliu Erjiu.

(Popul Vubh), the Maya chieftains usually chanted this line when accepting extra time:

"We go to the place where the sun rises. From there our Father Huami comes." It seems that their ancestors really crossed the bamboo

Detailed, then go to the place where the sun rises*. However, from the unknown verse in the latter sentence, I learned that it is worth taking

Three explanations: 1. "Going to the place where the sun rises" is a tradition, and it is an action that their ancestors had done in the Book of Beasts. It can be

I think it is what I said about human beings who have been moving towards disasters from near the Middle East. If we keep "going towards the place where the sun rises",

Then you can reach the place where the fathers grew bamboo - the people are still across the Atlantic in North Africa and the Middle East -

This only shows that they understand their father's relationship, but it does not mean that their father came directly from North Africa and the Middle East across the Atlantic.

Juxi went to the Meisha area. Third, their Duohuahe went directly across the "Xi Ki" Daxishe to reach America.

The development of the Mayan stone culture is another important evidence. Although the stone carving style is not the same as that in the Middle East -

Although it expresses the theme, it has the unity of a star.

Although the Mayan Dan Yun plays a kind of race, the characters in their stone carvings often have the appearance of celebrities.

The "English Vegetable Pit Waiter" on the land of Sub-America. So today, there is no descendant who still has the horse-tooth writing system.

And white people with obvious polynoses are also passed down from generation to generation.

Another thing that surprised me is that the Mayans have a special love for black, red and white - and

These three colors are exactly the "three primary colors" of the Middle East, and they also correspond to the colors preserved in China to this day.

The ancient traditional red, black and white tribute people have remained. What makes me happy is that the three colors of red, black and white are also

"Abram" (Abram) or "Abraham" (Abraham)! "|". "r" is used by the Chinese in the South

There is a difference in this story. The Ya people and the Chinese people will also have this development habit. Even more coincidentally, in

The Chinese directly translated Abraham's "ram" as "La" (la), while the Mayans and Chinese unanimously translated "ram"

The "r" in "1l" is converted to "1l", which not only clearly understands the connection between the Yaga people and the Israelites, but also makes it clearer.

The relationship between the Mayans and the Chinese has developed similar habits.

"Qiya is" Qi-Abramlu. What does "Qi" mean? I don't have an answer for the moment. Yes.

The transliteration of the place name "Zipn" in China reappears. In other words, the three "Xi'ans" in China are all Nei ethnic groups.

Post-Shang's works, I would not be surprised if China had two "Yalun Rivers" (Feichu River and Wanglvhui), then on the land of Yushu

Isn't it surprising that three "Gou An" appeared out of nowhere?

Another important coincidence is that the status of "Zion" in Israel is exactly the same as that of Xi'an in China's ancient history. It is important.

to the city. "Dui'an" is the nickname of Doulu Fengzhun. Which tail tribe would miss and recreate such a city from a few square miles away?

There is only one nation, "Zion". The most frequent occurrence of this city and place name in the history of Israel was during the period of King David.

The Tianwei period of government and defense lasted from 1010 to 970 AD, which coincided with the Western Zhou Dynasty in China.

In addition to the above three "Xi'an", there is actually another "Chengyang". Because of the distance, people often regard "Xi'an" as "threat".

"Yang". In fact, the most famous Xi'an in Shaanxi Province has a very long history, only about a thousand years ago, but the history of Xianyang just started.

In the Eastern Zhou Dynasty, in the twelfth year of Duke Xing of Qin (350 BC), Shang Cui defended the capital in order to reform the government and avoid the interference of the Changzhi clan.

It is a deformation in cultural inheritance. However, it can be seen from the speculation of tomb soil on the Qin Shihuang Festival and the vastness of the project.

There are similar traditions to be found. In addition, ancient southern culture also has descriptions of emperors carrying earth from their hometowns for their beloved swords.

It is a world-shattering custom in China, but in Egypt these things must be nothing more than a small gain.

I suspect that the construction of the pyramids is a secret technology involving state power.

It is rumored that ordinary people are not allowed to imitate construction, let alone ordinary manpower. This is difficult to see in other areas.

The same reason for the pyramids, but absolute restrictions are impossible, so there is the Xixia Dynasty of China

"2)" Taboos about women

The physical impurity of women is greatly exaggerated:

15:19 When a woman goes through menstruation, her gong will be unclean for seven days, and whatever she brings up will be unclean until evening. Woman is dirty

Among the filth, everything she recorded was unclean - and anything she sat on was unclean. See her bed

He shall be unclean until evening, and his clothes shall be washed and sprinkled with water. No matter what object she takes, she will not

Clean until night, and wash clothes with water. On a woman's bed, or on something she sits on,

If there is anything out there that is left alone, it will remain unclean until evening. If a man has sex with a tribute woman, he will become pregnant

The dirty shoots on the ground will be unclean for seven days, and the last thing you fear will be unclean. A woman's car is outside her menstrual period.

If you have had bleeding for many days, or you have tear syndrome due to prolonged menstruation, it is because the tear syndrome is unclean, and it is better to have menstrual bleeding.

As if it were unclean during the period, the bed, bed, and objects used by the earth on the day of going to the test will all be unclean.

Same as when you have a good period. Anyone who draws many of these is unclean. Luo Jing will not go to Karshang, and

To wash clothes, wash them with water. After a woman's genitals are healed, she has to count the seven naughts, and then she is clean.

"In front of spontaneous people, you have to stand up, respect the elderly, and respect your gods.

Generally speaking, these regulations promulgated by Jehovah are partly new and have an effect on the morality of society.

The normative function is partly a summary of past customs. Parts are civilized, like the food part, and his old Tradition. The Chinese seem to have inherited the Israeli tradition of discriminating against women and respecting the elderly.

(4) Susi's marriage and virginity complex

21:1 The LORD said to Daxi, "Speak to the sons of Aaron who are the governors:

The dead among the people shall touch themselves, except for the sake of their naked parents, children, brothers, and those who have not given them food,

Only sisters who are virgins can contaminate themselves. Since the emperor is the leader among the people, he cannot be contaminated by others.

Dao, these people are dead. There is no point in attacking or attacking others. Or the things they built will not be discarded in the face of the world.

Those who came to the list, those who were divorced did something new to Hehua, and opened their mouths to express their good fortune.

They cast a net on all the living people, and the flames proved that since this time, the people and the pomegranates have made peace -

Qiao Er had just said all these words, but the ground under their feet had not yet opened its mouth to follow them and their surroundings in Beijing, and made an agreement.

The men and property of Korah, the incense will go down. In this way, they and anyone who wants to belong to them will not be able to fall into the net.

Aaron is a figure shrouded in mystery. First of all, he is the eldest son. But his status is below Moses. It is clear that Moses

It's still a great arrangement for his children and grandchildren. Apart from their brothers and sisters, the greatest threat to the Moses family would be Aaron's personal guard.

Sons, according to the inheritance arrangement at that time, even if Aaron is not involved, these two sons will be the first in the order of succession of Moses -

First there was a religious conflict. Then there is the counter-expansion of Korra. There was also the death of Ha Lung’s two sons. Political struggle is going on Maxi used the rod of Xinglun as the representative of the Levites to give Aaron a traditional title, believing that Aaron would attack other branches of the family.

Causing excessive and obvious embarrassment, Moses was afraid that he would be embarrassed. If he wanted to conquer everyone, he must first conquer Aaron -

Because flying here is a symbol of political power. Aaron's selection by God is actually equivalent to Mashi's selection.

Violation. The reason is that they both belong to the same tribe + "Levites".

From then on, the Levites received many privileges, one of which was: "Every tenth of the produce of Israel shall be given to me."

Although it was given to the descendants of Li Song as an inheritance, because what they were doing was something that would cause trouble, it was even more given to them as a gift to their children.

This allocation is obvious. The original 12 (or 1) families talked about branches, and now one-tenth of the chief shepherd [not based on ten

Moses was of several generations, and he was only the brother of Levi from his own sect, but he was treated with such courtesy.

Therefore, the status of the god Gege who was appointed can be seen in the same cabin. His 11 brothers, Ubo Levi, and the son of the chariot are all gone.

Some were specially moved back to Yingnan. Therefore, if in the end King Joah becomes the standing emperor of China. People should not be surprised -

Moses passed on Wang Lun’s Hu Kuang to Aaron’s third son and Elijah. This was Moses’ balancing strategy.

He was almost worthy of temporarily uniting the Aaron family. A series of internal and external wars await them.

I'm fascinated by the media. People who "draw maps" don't just draw the territory of the Middle East. They also go around the world to check.

Look at the enfeoffable land. As far as the world at that time was concerned, no nation could truly compete with the Israelites.

They are the most powerful people and can symbolically carve up the world. But here in the Middle East it is also given symbolically some land.

The rapid expansion of population has made it impossible to live safely in the Middle East, and we must find ways to drive people out.

It is possible to continue living only if you go. Under the traditional production method, how many people can survive on a piece of land has a relative

Due to the fixed pattern, the population cannot develop without limit. This is something that any ruler and patriarchal leader will see

From "Shishi" I thought of China's "Shijie County". The news about Israel’s “judges” and China’s “judges” is indeed true

There are indeed big differences, but there are no similarities. At least they are not helping people who belong to the lower class -

The ancestral relationship between some words from ten generations of China and some word factories in the translation of "4 Holy Days" cannot be interpreted as a mere coincidence. In fact,

In fact, I think that many of the similarities are the "different aspects" of some special words, which may have been formed in ancient spiritual translations over a long period of time.

Hejiuyu has entered into the language system of heaven by convention. If the Chinese people immigrated from the Middle East, then what developed in China?

After writing his own words, the talents between the two places were connected, and the original review session will more or less remain the same.

- Sheng Ping" can we understand the strange things in the ancient text translation library, such as "Julius Caesar- Why did Bu change to "西" according to the pronunciation of Asia?

"Xian" and all of them come from "Kaiser the Great", which seems to have nothing to do with the name. Even if it is directly detailed, different regions have different names.

There are different comments. Compared with the Middle Eastern name commonly known in mainland China as "Hou Dao Keng", other Chinese-speaking areas just call it "Half".

"Xing", Chinese Zheng Xi's "Hangmeixis", some people in other areas translated it as "fortress". Who would know if you don't pay attention after many years?

Are they the same person? In view of this, I don’t want to be too alarmed. Some of my guesses are too bold, especially Yuye.

In order to "return to health", the central government must be bold to push the fence. But Caesar's example was indeed said by Suitong.

In "Yi", Yang Sheng taught Han Rong that "his father was jealous of the country and was rich in salary, and his clothes were purple and his body was gold." He still used raw colors to describe wealth.

If we carefully compare some household languages in ancient China and Israel, we can find some similar words.

Although some of them may have been changed due to the "nine translations", from "Heaven and Earth Liuhe" and "The monarch is sent by heaven"

From the "Emperor on Earth" to the "Great Red and Great Purple", you can still see some traces. Although the ancient Chinese emperors

Later, bright yellow was used exclusively, but red and red enjoyed a special status. For example, during the Su-Han period, red and

The purple ground was reserved exclusively for the emperor, so-called "the ground is covered with purple". This custom was later developed by the emperors.

Ji Jie provided a commonly used evidence. As long as there are traces of this, it can be presumed that it is the residence of the royal family.

At the same time, we also see that Ishmael, as the uncle of Jacob (Israel), although

The genealogy is so recent and clear, but the Israelites have been incompatible with them since they were born. It has to be said that

There are a large number of Israelite units of measurement in the Antiphon. This did not attract my attention at first, but instead

I never thought that these measures that ordinary Chinese people are not familiar with would hinder the reading pleasure of Chinese readers, but I

He quickly changed his view; these false units are a precious "cause" of human society, and their existence

Verifies the inherent cultural kinship between the Middle East and global civilization in a unique way that no other clue can

It cannot be measured, which is determined by the characteristics of the measurement unit; it has nothing to do with politics, or it has little to do with it.

Everyone must use it. It will only come out when civilization develops to a certain stage, and it is also a civilization that will definitely appear.

Product, it is directly related to trust and dad. Ancient society is also an energy-enhancing society, and there is strictness in falsely accusing trustworthy units.

And stability, will not change easily.

I think the study of unitary units of measurement will be the most important topic for the city system in the future.

Several measurement units that often appear in the Gram have important units: talents, coops, hands

Magnesium, long false accusation unit: village. Hukouying, guest number unit: liter, bucket. Cooking King, etc. -

When we examine the ancient measurement units, we should not exclude the ancient countries of Europe and Australia, especially the British

The conservative Western fossil kingdom of Lunsan Island should be a more interesting area for us, because I think the Middle East

It is the birthplace of "global" human civilization. British policy makers are developed and ancient, and they are also present throughout the country.

The world's use of Guangzhou has all kinds of cultural connections with the ancient Middle East, of course not excluding the use of it during the Roman Empire.

Generations are also introduced. In the history of development, some changes have occurred in various regions, but only in China has made many changes for various purposes. The biggest one was when Emperor Xun of Qin unified China.

The most recent one was in the last century when China integrated with the world, so it is not easy to find the houses and units of the past dynasties.

China is changing, and the Middle East will also change, so this research should be two-way. According to the existing data, initially

The sand comparison is as follows:

About length:

In ancient times, false accusations were often made based on a person's body length. This was the case in the Middle East and had to be the case in China. In fact, it was the same all over the world.

There is a mysterious connection between the conversion relationship between

The fact that the conversion units of many Chinese measurement units and international common units are mostly integers is itself

Steel thus proves that all human beings come from the same communication system, but some people would say that the entire unit of modern Dujie is the same.

After many years of history, I think this is only superficial, because the modern metric medallion was originally set up to

Feng Douxiang, who passed the examination again

Taking into account the integration issues with countries around the world, the measurement unit in each system should be converted into integers as much as possible.

It should be an important consideration. In addition, the "scientific" methods used by modern people to measure

It is entirely possible that the ancients used Jipu's method to obtain the units that came out, such as * meters."

Origin -

The current metric system comes from France. "One meter is equal to the time of light in a vacuum in 17299 792 458 seconds."

"The speed of light is defined as 299 792 458 m/s."

Scientists like Gerard and others suggested "taking one hundred thousandth of the long seat from the northern model to the equator passing through the Barker meridian as the

"unit", the reason why it is called "meter" is because of Imeter.

The British unit of length "foot" is obviously originally a natural base. inches is also a

"Natural" unit of measurement: derived from three large grains, approximately 2.54 cm each. But 1 US foot is equal to 30.- He Tianmi. It's basically an "integer" conversion. In China, three feet is equal to one meter.

Common length positions in ancient China include: "Xun, Quan. Shi. Fu. Net. Chi. Yuan-Jian. Bu. Dang."

Liao, Li. Ji, Gui. Wei. Lisong, thick", etc. -

The long extension of the male is called "ting". The traditional saying is "1 wide", which is roughly equivalent to today's "5 city feet".

There is also a Changtang unit in China whose "name" is equal to 5 feet. According to the massacre committee, 1 is = 1 prefecture? Isn't this right?

Because of their language differences, the people of Jidai had different attitudes toward the common people after they came to China.

Where is the answer? Doubtful

China's measurement system mostly appeared after the Shang Dynasty. The Warring States period was relatively complicated, and it was relatively unified after the Qin Dynasty.

Chinese 1 xun = 8 feet, which is close to the "harmony step". "" The steps of the Zhou Dynasty were eight feet, and the steps of the Tai Dynasty were six feet. The old system

This looks very messy, but the basic data I got is, ! Chinese = 1-5

The rail, the distance between the two wheels of the car, is customized, and it is called the eight in ancient times. Later, it was extended to the "rail" after the car was driven.

This is another copy of "Xun", 1.8 meters.

The British also have a length unit of "yard", 1 yard = 0-914 meters = "2 steps" in the Qing Dynasty of China

Then there are "carry only" and "carry to 10" which are both rare. The carry practices on these measurement units are in

The same goes for Israel. It can be regarded as another example of the origin of culture in the world. The reason why more "2 progress" is adopted

"digit" is the simplest, and "5-digit" is chosen because the five fingers of the human hand are the most convenient calculation tool.

In the old "Yi Jing", the easy calculation is carried out by 2, and today's calculations are still carried out by 2.

"Talent" (talent, also translated as "talent*") is a weight that was used frequently by the ancient Israelites.

unit.

1 "talent" is approximately equal to 30 kilograms (kg). ! Talents = 3000 "shekels".

From the "talent" of Israel, we can verify the corresponding relationship between the unit of "stone" (imitation Gan) in ancient China.

In China's Warring States Period (no such unit seems to exist even earlier), ! Shi = 30 kilograms. In other words,! Warring States Period 30,000 grams.

The pronunciation of the two is also close. The Chinese word "stone" is originally pronounced "shi", so why is it only named after weights and measures?

The word "dan" indicates its characteristics: in ancient times, it was impossible to use the precious Jinshan Weiduo for this metric-weight unit.

Code can only use common and easily available stones, but because its original pronunciation (close to) "talent", so it is

The 30-kilogram stone wild code is simplified according to the Chinese way of thinking that nouns in foreign languages usually have the first or last syllable.

The habit is called "stone" (dan). If we read "talent" consecutively, we find that the abbreviation is "dan".

The choice couldn't be more correct: "t" and "d". The interchange of plosive sounds in pronunciation is very common, plus "1

There is a tendency of vowelization, so it is not surprising that it is converted to the Chinese "dan" sound.

A direct comparison between Europeans and China in terms of "science and technology"

The author believes that human civilization so far can be divided into two major dynasties; the first is the primitive Middle Eastern civilization, which was about 2500 years ago.

In ancient times, China was more advanced than Europe and America in this county. The first civilization took European civilization as its main coordinate.

China plays an important role in the radium civilization and the West. For the above two divisions, another division method can actually be used.

The political form of the first civilization is "nation" (pay attention to the blood circle), and the political form of the second civilization is "nation" (ignoring the nation)

The two civilizations are essentially different because of the two "scientific techniques", and their differences conflict with each other because of two contradictory aspects.

During the "Ten Generations of China", China was generally civilized and progressive, and then fell backward and conservative. This was the formation of this ladder.

European civilization (including science and technology) developed on the basis of the "two Greek civilizations". Because of language, religion

postscript

This is a reading note, and the book I read is the Bible.

Anyone who is interested in "Samsung Wei Culture Conjecture" will not give up this book. This is inconsistent with the previous book

A great addition to Hedda. If "Samsung Culture Conjecture" can be fully explored, then this book will be the only one discussion. If the previous book was just questions and vague thoughts, then this book will be a clearer and more concrete conclusion.

It should be noted that since my purpose in publishing this note is to record the source of the curse of the Chinese nation, I have focused on inferring the wrong "Cai"

Classics and the relationship between the Xia, Shang and Zhou dynasties in China, and the time of the great human migration stopped about 2500 years ago, so

There is basically no mention of the New Testament after Xing Su was born. This section actually only covers the Bible and Old Testament.

The Bible quoted in this section uses two versions of Chinese translation and three versions of English translation. I have marked some places.

Note that some places do not have version markings. Readers are asked to pay attention to the corresponding differences in individual places.

In addition, if you are stuck in reading due to your lack of knowledge of the Bible, please directly delete and read the "Episodes" of this book.

Chronicles section. That is the abbreviated genealogy of the Bible, the genealogy of the Israelites. The entire Bible is actually about Expansion and elaboration of the family tree. This book is a kind of translation of this "family tree": reading the families of other ethnic groups from the family trees of Middle Easterners.

Genealogical information, including the origins of China's Zheng, Shang, and Zhou dynasties.

Because this book covers a wide range of topics, I used Internet tools to retrieve countless pieces of information and downloaded millions of pieces of information.

In the process of citation and reference, as long as there is a certain source, the original author information is retained. Where necessary, please refer to the original author or institutional friends.

Contact us at time. The bureau would like to thank all potential providers of information, especially those who have written about local history.

If someone comments that this is a text full of holes, I won't be shocked that this book was published in a hurry just to satisfy me.

A wish: Let the whole society pay attention to the coming and going of the Chinese nation again, and let the world pay attention to human civilization again

The coming and going of the world will allow the Chinese people to seize the opportunity to join the upcoming era of great discovery in human history.

Thanks to the ancestors who perfectly preserved the Bible, thanks to countless historians for their wisdom contributions, and thanks to all those who regard the truth as the highest principle.
